

JOB INFORMATION

Position Type: None given

Seeking: PhD

Specialization: HBHP

Position Title: Postdoctoral Research Associate in Community-bas

Location: Providence, RI

Salary Range: None given

Position Description: The Brown University Department of Community Health is seeking a Postdoctoral Research Associate to join the Institute for Community Health Promotion, a vibrant research team doing community-based intervention research in the areas of obesity prevention, dietary and physical activity change with adults, children, families and the built environment. The position will entail involvement in planning, implementing and evaluating intervention research studies, conducting focused research on related topics, writing manuscripts and preparation of grant applications. Mentoring from senior faculty will be provided. The successful candidate must be a highly motivated individual with demonstrated experience in research related to the above areas. Successful applicants are expected to have the ability to work independently. Strong verbal and written communication skills are required. Minimum requirements include a PhD with high level of academic achievement and a strong background in public health, community health, behavioral medicine, health communications, nutrition, physical activity, or a related field. Prior work with ethnic minorities and other underserved populations is a plus. Publications in national journals are a plus. Competitive salary, dependent on experience, and benefits are provided. Brown University is an EEO/AA employer and encourages applications from minorities and women. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed.

Additional Information: The appointment begins July 1, 2009 and is initially for one year; second year appointments are negotiated between associate and supervisor. Please send curriculum vitae and the names of two references to: Kim M. Gans, PhD, Search Chair, Brown University, Box G-121S-8, Providence, RI 02912 Kim_Gans@brown.edu