

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
COLLEGE OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Clinical Assistant Professor

Division of Health Behavior and Health Promotion

The Division of Health Behavior and Health Promotion in the College of Public Health at The Ohio State University invites applicants for a clinical track (non-tenure earning) Assistant Professor level faculty position. In this position, the faculty member will be responsible annually for teaching 2 or 3 sections of PUBHHBP 3510, The Role of Behavior in Public Health (undergraduate), including online as well as large in-person sections. The faculty member may additionally be assigned to participate in the teaching of additional undergraduate courses such as PUBHLTH 2010, Introduction to Global Public Health, and PUBHLTH 3180 Undergraduate Capstone Preparation, and graduate courses in the area of public health specialization. In addition, this individual will participate in advising undergraduate and MPH students and serving on College committees.

A Ph.D. in public health with a specialization in behavioral and social science, or a closely related degree with public health research or practice experience, is required. The faculty member should have a record of successful independent teaching of undergraduate students.

Environment

The College of Public Health is Ohio's first accredited college of public health. First established in 1995 as part of the College of Medicine, the University Board of Trustees created the College of Public Health in 2007. In 2016, U.S. News & World Report ranked Ohio State's College of Public Health graduate program 19th of all Schools of Public Health, 12th among public Schools of Public Health. It is one of seven health sciences colleges on the same campus, more than any other university in the U.S. The college includes five academic divisions, two centers of outreach and engagement, four graduate degree programs with several specializations, and an undergraduate degree with two specializations, and two undergraduate minors. Specializations within the college include biostatistics, environmental health sciences, epidemiology, health behavior and health promotion, health services management and policy, veterinary public health, biomedical informatics, and clinical and translational science, and population health management and leadership.

The Ohio State University was ranked by U.S. News & World Report as the state's best public university; 16th nationally. The University is ranked by the National Science Foundation among the top 12 U.S. public research universities and 4th among all universities in industry-sponsored research. Ohio State offers over 200 majors and 12,000 courses to 66,000 students, including 52,000 undergraduates. Unique institutional strengths include the resources of 15 colleges, and nationally ranked academic medical center. Located in the state capital, a metropolitan area of over 1.5 million, Ohio State offers splendid opportunities for interaction with practitioners and policymakers as well as academic colleagues.

Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and single parents and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium. The University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer and is committed to a diverse workforce and encourages applications without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Applications will be accepted immediately, and will be considered until the search has concluded. Submit a cover letter describing your qualifications for the position, a CV, and the names and contact information for three potential academic references. Applications are accepted through Academic Jobs Online: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9786>