

2016-2017 Curriculum Guide for PhD degree program with a specialization in HEALTH BEHAVIOR AND HEALTH PROMOTION

The PhD degree requires a significant program of study and research that qualifies the recipient to conduct independent high quality research and communicate complex information in public health. In addition, the PhD graduate will contribute to the advancement of the field of knowledge. The emphasis is on mastery of the field and particularly on the acquisition of research skills as a basis for original work.

Students admitted to the PhD degree program are assigned a faculty advisor who will provide guidance throughout the program. This document serves as a resource to be used by the student and the advisor in planning a program with a specialization in Health Behavior and Health Promotion (HBHP). All students are expected to be familiar with the College of Public Health (CPH) Graduate Student Handbook (available at <http://cph.osu.edu/students/graduate/handbooks>) that includes information about PhD requirements, and with the Graduate School Handbook (available at <http://www.gradsch.ohio-state.edu/>).

PROGRAM OF STUDY

The PhD program requires a minimum of 80 credits or 50 credits beyond a master's degree. With approval of the student's advisor and Advisory Committee, up to 30 credits of appropriate master's level course work can be counted toward the PhD. Additional requirements for courses and distribution of credits are provided below. Students should work closely with their advisor to develop a tentative curriculum plan during the first semester of their enrollment. In collaboration with their advisor, students are encouraged to form their Advisory Committee during their first year in the PhD program.
